Profile and tagging

Viewing and sharing

Who can post on your profile?

 Only me

Who can see what others post on your profile?

 Only me

Hide comments containing certain words from your profile

Allow others to share your posts to their stories?

If you create a public post, anyone on Facebook can share it to their story. If you tag someone in any post, they can share it to their story. Their story will include your full name, a link to your post, and will be visible for 24 hours. They control who sees it

Tagging

Who can see posts you're tagged in on your profile?

 Only me

When you're tagged in a post, who do you want to add to the audience of the post if they can't already see it?

They'll be able to see these posts in places like Feed and search.

 Only me

Reviewing

Review tags people add to your posts before the tags appear on Facebook?

If someone who you're not friends with adds a tag to your post you'll still be asked to review it.

Remember: When you approve a tag, the person tagged and their friends may be able to see your post.

Review posts you're tagged in before the post appears on your profile?

This only controls what's allowed on your profile. Posts you're tagged in still appear in search, News Feed and other places on Facebook.

How people find and contact you

Your friends

Who can send you friend requests?

 Friends of friends

Who can see your friends list?

Remember, your friends control who can see their friendships on their own Timelines. If people can see your friendship on another timeline, they'll be able to see it in News Feed, search and other places on Facebook. If you set this to Only me, only you will be able to see your full friends list on your timeline. Other people will see only mutual friends.

Do you want search engines outside of Facebook to link to your profile?

When this setting is on, search engines may link to your profile in their results. When this setting is off, search engines will stop linking to your profile, but this may take some time. Your profile can still be found on Facebook if people search for your name.

POSTS

Limiting who can comment or see your posts allows for better privacy from strangers. This can prevent people you don't want to interact with from following you online.

Comment summaries are generated using Meta AI, and may not be representative of all comments. Not all posts will have comment summaries, and certain posts like ads may still show them. Learn more

BLOCKING

Blocking users, events, apps, and more will help keep your account free of unwanted information.

Audience and visibility

Blocking

Manage Blocking

Restricted list

When you add someone's profile to your Restricted list, they won't see posts on Facebook that you share only to Friends. They may still see things you share to Public or on a mutual friend's profile, and posts their profile is tagged in. Facebook doesn't notify your friends when you add them to your Restricted list. Learn more

Edit

Block users

Once you block someone, that person can no longer see things you post on your timeline, tag you, invite you to events or groups, start a conversation with you, or add you as a friend. Note: Does not include apps, games or groups you both participate in.

Edit

Block messages

If you block someone's profile on Facebook, they won't be able to contact you in Messenger either. Unless you block someone's Facebook profile and any others they may create, they may be able to post on your timeline, tag you, and comment on your posts or comments. Learn more

Block app invites

Once you block app invites from someone's profile, you'll automatically ignore future app requests from that person's profile. To block invites from a specific friend's profile, click the "Ignore All Invites From This Profile" link under your latest request.

Edit

Block event invites

Once you block event invites from someone's profile, you'll automatically ignore future event requests from that profile.

Block Pages

Once you block a Page, that Page can no longer interact with your posts or like or reply to your comments. You'll be unable to post to the Page's timeline or message the Page. If you currently like the Page, blocking it will also unlike and unfollow it.

Apps and websites

These are apps and websites you've connected to your Facebook account by either logging into them with Facebook or by connecting an account you have with them to your Facebook. You can review and manage the non-public information each app has permission to access, or remove their access.

Information an app can access

- Public Some information about you is part of your public profile or is information you've made public. An app can access this public information at any time.
- Other information is not public and an app can access it through this connection only if you choose to share it with the app when you log in with your Facebook account.
- Non-public If it appears you haven't logged into an app with your Facebook account in the last 90 days, the app's access to your non-public information through this connection automatically expires. When this happens, the app changes from Active to Expired.
- Note that, even if an app no longer has access to your non-public information, it may still have non-public information you previously shared with it while it was Active. Learn more
